

I have had a long and successful career as an award-winning professional photographer, working locally, nationally and worldwide, tackling every aspect photography can offer. Spanning over 40 years, my career has been diverse, covering sport, news, fashion & beauty and photo-documentary, including numerous visits to Bangladesh to document and highlight the plight of children growing up in an orphanage. Mentoring medical students at King's College, London to explore their lived experiences through photography has also been personally rewarding.

I'd like to think that these diverse experiences have given me the ability to not only look, listen and observe, but to communicate with people from many diverse backgrounds. Since been successfully elected in 2022 as a District Councillor for the Ward of Mulbarton & Stoke Holy Cross I have applied these skills to this new and rewarding role. Should I be approved and elected as your County Councillor in the forthcoming elections I will continue to strive to serve our communities equally and without prejudice at County Hall.'
